Re: Suspend New York State Regulations requiring students to pass Regents exams in 2020-21 to graduate from high school

Dear Interim Commissioner Rosa, Vice Chancellor Brown and Members of the Board of Regents:

We are parents, students and educators from across New York State. As the COVID-19 pandemic rages on, we are writing to thank you for extending COVID-19 graduation exemptions to allow students to graduate without January 2021 Regents exams and to ask you to immediately suspend requirements that students pass Regents exams during the 2020-21 school year to graduate from high school.

Last school year, COVID-19 graduation exemptions reassured us that if students demonstrated mastery of State standards through their coursework – whether in-person, remote or hybrid – this pandemic would not affect their ability to graduate. We are asking you to extend last year's COVID-19 exemptions through August 2021 because we need to plan now for the rest of this school year and know what will be expected this year for high school graduation.

We appreciate your decision to cancel January exams due to ongoing concerns about how to administer the tests safely, equitably and fairly, and understand that you have not yet decided whether to give exams in June and August. We also know that the federal Department of Education has not yet granted a waiver from state testing requirements under the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA), as it did last year. However, ESSA requires only that state tests be given, not that they be used for graduation. So, regardless of whether June and August Regents exams are ultimately administered, nothing prevents you from exempting students from the requirement to pass exams this year to graduate.

Extending COVID-19 exemptions now would let students and teachers focus on the work of teaching and learning, confident that students who meet all other graduation requirements will not lose their chance to earn a diploma because of COVID-19. Remote and hybrid instruction is challenging for all learners, and the inequities of remote learning have also been extensively documented. Students from all areas of New York--urban, suburban, and rural--have had a hard time finding reliable Wi-Fi, up-to-date technology, and even space at home to participate in a live class or to study quietly. For students with disabilities and families that speak languages other than English, remote learning is even more challenging. And as we move into winter, many of us are still dealing with the traumas of 2020 and our present circumstances; we are living through the loss of jobs by those close to us, declining mental and physical health, and for some of us, death of family members, friends, classmates, or co-workers.

Requiring students and teachers to prepare for high-stakes, in-person graduation tests—that may or may not be administered—is incredibly stressful and takes away from the work we are all doing to prepare young people for college, career and civic readiness. We are asking you to act now to remove this stress, to allow us all to plan for the year ahead, and to assure students across New York State that, if they complete their coursework successfully, they will be able to graduate without Regents exams this year.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Many students don't have technology, many don't have support at home during virtual learning, many have chaos in their homes during virtual learning, many are not able to focus staring at a screen for 6 hrs a day, many are experiencing quarantines/fear/anxiety or possibly even family sick and dying. It is just not right to expect all NY state students to be able to pass a difficult Regents exam during such difficult times. |

Last year's seniors dealt with losing the last 3-4 months of their year. This year, the class of 2021 has been dealing with the ever changing schedules and uncertainty that this new COVID19 world brings. I think to be fair to the teachers and students, the Board of Regents should consider this petition. |

| | | | | | | | | | My child attends a Consortium school, so only one Regents exam is required for graduation (ELA). Her older sister who attended the same school is now in college, meaning she graduated high school also with just that one Regents exam. Having not had the Regents exams required of most other NYS children did not affect my child in the slightest. It did not matter in terms of her acceptance at selective colleges, nor has not having taken those exams made one iota of difference in her performance as a college students. It is high time NYS jettisoned this obsolete and constraining measure. And of course in this year of pandemic schooling, when the inequities in educational access are greater than ever, administering them would be grotesque. Let teachers and students focus on LEARNING (and social emotional well being), not TESTING. |

There is no responsible way to count a test taken this year on a record that will stay with them through their academic careers. |

| | | | | | | | | | | Please take the testing stress off of students. Their mental health is declining. They are offered subpar 2 days in school and/or an unregulated remote learning option. A good portion of kids don't have the access or parental guidance for success this year. When NYS isn't even guaranteeing students an opportunity to adequately learn this year, how can you demand they still take these tests? |

| 621 | 12/5/2020 | | Wendy | Rolon | parent/guardian | | | | | I grew up in New York City and have a real appreciation for the regents, both for the rigor they add to learning and also as a New York State institution. However, in the time of COVID-19 I believe that modifications need to be made in order to keep the best interests of our students in focus. |
| 622 | 12/3/2020 | | Bella | Roman | parent/guardian | | Plainview | NY | 11803 | My child is a full remote student. With many kids getting infected in our Long Island high school, and schools in general, we had no choice but to do remote. The regents are tough enough under normal academic circumstances. This time around, it has been extremely difficult to be able to teach the students everything they need to know in order to be prepared. Remote teaching does not compare to in school instruction and requiring regents exams can definitely make a difference as to whether many of these students get to graduate. Please cancel them and do not punish them for something that is beyond their control. Thank you for your consideration. |

| 646 | 12/9/2020 | Danielle | Salvestrini | parent/guardian | | New Paltz | NY | 12561 | I am signing this petition as a parent and a teacher, to advocate for ALL children in NYS. To many inconsistencies between districts and the models they have chosen to educate our students. Plus, we don't know the full burden that families are dealing with in their households. Let's start to level the playing field for college prospects, beginning by eliminating the 2021 Regents Exams. Let schools give their own local exams based on the content they feel their students have learned. Even better- assign them a project-based exam to share their expertise. |

Our kids barely have enough time with their teachers as the teachers are switching classrooms in between while students remain with their cohorts. They are not able to learn all the materials in the 30 minute periods which really are 25 minutes by the time teachers arrive settle in and get class settled. I am concerned as a parent how much material my kids are missing in all their classes especially the regents classes. The regents exam add undue stress and burden to an unprecedented learning and teaching environment. Please cancel these exams. |

The Regents exams serve neither of those groups well. The language and writing requirements result in Special Education students failing even when they can explain verbally the importance of the information tested. The strict curriculum requirements of the exams keep gifted children from exploring concepts as fully as they are capable because they need to cover all topics that may or may not even show up on an exam. Regents destroy the love and passion for learning among students. |

Despite teachers, administrators, and parents best efforts to adapt and educate, there has been much loss, and it's certainly worse for some communities than others. To administer standardized tests likes the regents exams this spring is not only ridiculous, it adds more stress to an already difficult situation. Cancel the tests and let educators know now so they can focus on filling in learning gaps and social emotional learning, instead of test prep. |

All students are dealing not only the rigors of school and adolescence, they are now doing so in an extremely scary time. Students are moving from in school to remote as they are placed in quarantine, to say the process is disruptive is a vast understatement. The last thing they need to worry about this year is a high stakes standardized test. |

| | | | | | | | | | We are in a pandemic. We are all making sacrifices every day. Kids do not learn on remote the same way they do in the classroom. Students are depressed and in crisis from having their lives uprooted and being handed so many disappointments. Sports are cancelled. Dance, music concerts, chorus, everything! The regents exams would not be appropriate, fair, or valid this year. Please support our students and remove regent exam requirements for graduation. |

| | | | | | | | | | I'm a teacher in Hastings on Hudson and a parent in Clarkstown. There is absolutely no reason to hold these exams this year. Please allow teachers and students to properly prepare for the remainder of the year. Between erratic and unpredictable closings, hybrid schedules that vary from town to town (making day care next to impossible for teachers who teach in a different district), endless problems with technology (home and at school), teachers having to constantly plan on the fly, lost time due to a shortened schedule, the inherent problems teaching both remote and in person, unfunded mandates, the trauma of dealing with lost or sick family members, the trauma of lost income and/or employment, and the day to day fear of the unknown, it is unreasonable to hold these exams in June. Tell us NOW what the plan is. Everyone is under enough stress as it is. |

| | | | | | | | | | As a teacher of students with disabilities, it would be doing them a huge disservice if they are forced to take assessment in which they cannot possibly get adequately prepared considering the sate of virtual instruction during a international health crisis. There is enough anxiety on their shoulders just trying to survive. The unknown of exams and potential graduation is simply too much. |

| | | | | | | | | | Testing the students in this school year is a travesty. |
| | | | | | | | | | Some students have no learning device. Some students are working exclusively on their phones while their younger siblings take naps because the teen is the house is providing all childcare so that the parents can work. In New York City where I teach, homelessness is increasing daily. Domestic violence and violence in the home are increasing daily. Students are working to help support their families who have lost jobs, and they are trying to stay alive while also trying to get an education. Several of my best studentsIn my highest level classes I have trouble participating because they are responsible for all of their younger siblings while their parents work. They are in equities in access to technology, access to the Internet, even food, shelter, and safety. Standardize tests would do nothing but measure those in equities and add to the trauma imposed by this pandemic. |

| | | | | | | | | | I teach in the Buffalo Public schools and so many of my students are barely hanging on by a thread. They are trying to survive this unprecedented predicament. There is so much we cannot control in terms of being able to make their lives better, but taking some of the stress out of their school year by canceling the Regents is something we can actually do for them. Please take their emotional health under consideration. |

| 976 | 12/2/2020 | Christine | Keller | other educator | Sangha Education Center and SUNY Old Westbury | Bellmore | NY | 11710 | I am Executive Director of Sangha Education Center, Special Educator, Adjunct Professor at SUNY Old Westbury, and a parent of two young adult children ages 22 and 18. After NYS removed the general diploma and regents competency test for the regents only pathway with iterations of local diploma pathways, many students were put at-risk and teaching to the test became our culture. Enough. Do not require regents exams in NYS as a graduation requirement. Lives are in the balance! Focus on truly educating our students and minimize anxiety for all. Enable teachers and save our schools. |
| 977 | 12/3/2020 | Gregory | Kerwath | other educator | Tamarac High School | Troy | NY | 12180 | I am the Transition Coordinator here at Tamarac High School. I am seeing how difficult it is for students this year to learn the material for the classes they are taking. They are resilient but they have so much on their plate already. Regents exams should not be an extra burden in this time of fear, uncertainty, instructional obstacles, social anxiety, and other problems our students are facing. Regents exams also require students to gather in large groups and confined spaces which creates a significant COVID outbreak vulnerability. Students and teachers should not have to go through this just for the sake of a test. I am hoping the department of education is able to see the value of easing the regents exam requirements during these unprecedented times. |
| 978 | 12/2/2020 | Christine | Kio | other educator | Camden Central Schools | Verona | NY | 13478 | These tests are not valid evaluations of student learning in the best of circumstances. During this mess with covid, this should be a stressor we can eliminate for our students. |

| 983 | 12/8/2020 | Tal | Leslie | other educator | | Brooklyn | NY | 11209 | The idea that students and families should be under stress about examinations is insane. We need to focus on improving online education, not on stopping and starting brick and mortar school over and over again. This is a chance to stop teaching to tests and for students to reflect and improve their skills. We are missing it as things stand now. |
| 984 | 12/9/2020 | Cynthia | Ling | other educator | | New York | NY | 10025 | Seniors who are applying to colleges and preparing for their next stage in life should not have to be concerned about whether their graduation hinges on an exam they might have to take in June. With everything else going on in the world, we should allow for the Class of 21 to graduate without this requirement! |
